TEWKSBURY ABBY, was at first a little Monastery, built by two Dukes of Mercia, Odo & Dudo; for a few Benedictine Monks & dedicated to the Virgin Mary, about the Year 715. About the Year 800, Briethric a King of the West Saxons was buried here. Robert Fitz-Hamon An: 1102 new built it & made great Endowments, advancing it to an Abby & reducing Cranburn Abby in Dorsetshire to a Priory & to be a Cell to it. His Daughter Mabilla Wife of Rob.^t Earl of Gloucester built the Priory of S.^t James at Bristol & subjected it to this Abby. Gilbert de Clare E. of Gloucester & Hereford & several of the Families of the Despensers & Beauchamps were great Benefactors some of whom were here buried. In the Reign of K. Hen. VI. the Priory of Godelive in Monmouthshire founded by Rob.^t de Chandos was subjected to it, insomuch that it became of great Dignity & very Rich as well in Plate &c. as in its annual value which was at the Dissolution according to both Dugdale & Speed. 1598: 1: 3: J. & N. their first Residence here they changed their Name, to that of this Place. R. E. d. 2.^d when he was deposed, was at first deliver'd to Thomas L^d Berkeley with an handsome allowance for his Maintenance, but by the Contrivance of his Enemies and the Cunning of Adam Bp. of Hereford, he was taken by warrant out of the Hands of Tho. L^d Berkeley Murder'd him. This Castle was formerly much larger as well as Stronger then at present.

THIS PRIORY or as y. Welsh call it Lhandevi Nanthodeny, from an Ancient little Chappell which stood here on y. River Hoderwy. The solitariness of this Place made S.^t David build here his little Hermitage, in which we do not find any succeeded him, till about y. Year 1103. William a Knight of y. Family of Hugh de Lacy retir'd to an austere Life alone in it, but at length Ernesius Chaplain to 2. Maud. became his Companion, & were both of them remarkable for their simplicity of Manners & Sanctity, which made Hugh de Lacy offer them many large Gifts, all which they refus'd except enough to build them a small ordinary Church w.^{ch} was dedicated to S.^t John Baptist An. 1108. In Process of Time Ernesius by y. Advice of Anselm. A.^b. B.^p of Canterbury perswaded W.^m to accept of some of those generous offers & form a Convent, which was done, & they chose y. order of Canons regular of S.^t Austin. An. Val. Dag. 1119-10. J. B. N. THIS was a Priory of black Canons founded by R. Athelstan and farther endow'd by Stephen de Hermishal in y^e reign of R. Hen. 3.^d The distant Prospect shews y^e few Remains of LANTONY PRIORY y^e second. The Intestine Wars so distress'd y^e Monks of Lantony in Monmouth shire, that they were forc'd to seek Protection of Milo of Gloucester, afterwards E. of Hereford, who gave them this Place; where they built & carried y^e Name of their old Monastery to It, which was still y^e Principal & where some of them would reside what ever they Suffer'd. R. John made large Grants to them which were confirm'd by R. Ed. 2.^d In y^e Reign of R. Ed. 4.th these two Monasteries were united, & this, which was y^e latest became Principal, y^e Earls of Hereford continu'd their constant Patrons. These Monks were so distinguishable for their Humility & Piety (before their Removal) that R. Hen. 1.st & his Queen were their great admirers & Benefactors and would have given more, which they refus'd choosing only those few necessaries of Life which were consistent with their strict Profession.

Arviragus 12 Hides of Land about this Place, for a perpetual Endowment for 12 devout Christians. It is certain, that from a belief of this Tradition, the Ambassadors of England take Place of y^e Ambassadors of most Kingdoms in Europe; as representing y^e Kingdom that was soonest converted to Christianity. The immediate Successors of Joseph of Arimathea, liv'd in a Hutt made with Earth & cover'd with Boughs; but y^e Buildings afterwards were improv'd. In y^e beginning of y^e 5th Century, there are authentick Accounts, of a remarkable Settlement of Christian Monks at this Place. The famous K. Arthur was buried here as was several of y^e West-Sax: Kings. S^t Patrick y^e Apostle of Ireland was a Monk of Glastonbury. Ina K. of y^e West-Sax: brought them under y^e Discipline of an Abby. S^t Dunstan Abbot of this Place, & afterwards Archbp. of Canterbury introduc'd y^e Benedictine Order; under which Rule it continu'd, till y^e Dissolution in y^e Reign of K. H. 8th Rich^d. Whiting y^e last Abbot, refusing to sur- render his Abby, was condemn'd & executed upon an Accusation of High Treason; and y^e Abby attainted. The Abbot of Glastonbury was a Lord in Parliament. (It. THIS CASTLE was built by Roger the 3^d Bishop of Salisbury about the Year 1107. which H^{is} Stephen soon took from him, but Robert Wyril the 44th Bp. almost 200 Years after, recover'd it with Damages from the Earl who detain'd it. This Place was an Episcopal Seat some Ages before, being establish'd An^o Chr. 705. S^t. Q. Eliz. held this Castle and Mannour by Lease at first, but afterward for a Consideration obtain'd it in Fee from y^e Bishops & Chapter, and gave it to S^t. W^{ill} Rannlegh, on whose Attainder H^{is} James gave it to R^{ic}. Henry, and at his Death to Rob^t. Carr E. of Somerset; who being also attainted it was given to S^t. Edgar by a first Wife; whom she caus'd to be stab'd as he call'd to see her, and delighted herself with the Success of her Wickedness: tho' some Time after she made the usual Atonement of those Times, by building Religious Houses & taking a Religious Habit. It was a Place of great Consequence for many Ages: the Delivery of it was made a material Consideration: which Simon Montfort demanded when he took K. H. 3^d Prisoner, and Mortimer thought it the safest Place to keep K. Ed. 2nd in. K. H. 7th repair'd it. In which State it continued a long time — When y.^e then Proprietor had sold this stately Fabrick, the Roof & a great part of the Walls were pull'd down, & the principal Undertaker endeavouring to throw down the West Wall, was crush'd to death in his Enterprize. THE EAST VIEW OF WINCHESTER PALACE.

On Part of this Ground was heretofore a Strong Castle, remarkable in K. Stephen's Time for his vigorous beseiging y^e Empreß Maud in it; who escaped from him, by y^e Stratagem of being carried out in a Coffin as a dead Corps. K. Charles II. founded this An. 1683, & as appears by these Magnificent Remains, intended it for a Noble Palace. By y^e Design, we find a large & high Cupola was to be erected on it, which would have been a Sea Mark, notwithstanding y^e great Distance; & from whence might be discover'd with good Glases, y^e Port of Portsmouth & Road of Spithead; which is y^e usual Rendezvous of y^e Royal Navy.

THE NORTH WEST VIEW OF PORTCHESTER CASTLE, IN HAMPSHIRE.

These y^e Remains of y^e Walls & Fortifications, of a very Ancient & famous Town call'd Port Liris; to w^{ch} this Name of Portchester was afterwards given. This is with great probability taken to be y^e Place, where Vespasian y^e Roman Emperour landed. The Sea in process of Time left y^e Town, & y^e Inhabitants who depended on Trade & Navigation, remov'd to y^e Mouth of this great Haven; & on Port-sey Island built Portsmouth.

THE NORTH VIEW OF S^T MICHAEL'S MOUNT, IN THE COUNTY OF CORNWALL.

To S^r JOHN S^t ALBANY Bart.
 Knight of the Shire for the County of Cornwall.
 Proprietor of this Mount This Prospect is most gratefully Inscrib'd by his much Oblig'd and very humble Serv^{ts}

THIS Mount, antiently call'd by the Cornish Men Cara Comz in Clowze, but antienter Dynsol, has on its top an antient Religious House. W^m E. of Cornwall & Moriton, Nephew to W^m Cong, built a Monastery & annex'd it as a Cell to the larger Monastery of S^t Mich^l de Penide Maris in Normandy. Till K. R. 1. time of Mount seems to have serv'd for Religion only; but Hen^{ry} de la Pomeroy of Berry Pomeroy Castle in Devonsh. having kill'd a Serj^{ant} at Arms of J. K. who was sent to take him in Custody, flew to S^t Michael's Mount, surpris'd it, expuls'd the Monks & fortify'd it. In the 11. of Hen^{ry} 2. after a defeat of K. Hen^{ry} 2. at Barnestield, came to S^t Michael's Place by Shipping, disguis'd himself wth some of his followers in Pilgrims Habits, thereby got entrance, masquerad^{ed} as a Pilgrim, & seiz'd S^t Michael's Place wth he valiantly defended for a long time against the Power of K. Hen^{ry} 2. but was at last oblig'd to surrender. In the 13. of K. Hen^{ry} 2. Lady Catherine Gordon, Wife of Perkin Warbeck, fled here for Safety, but was soon taken Prisoner by the L. Doulney & brought to S^t Michael's. In K. Hen^{ry} 6. time, during a Cornish Commotion S^t Michael's Place was taken & plunder'd by the Rebels. In the late Civil Wars K. Ch^{arles} 1. confin'd Duke Hamilton here, but S^t Michael's Forces belieg'd it, took it & releas'd the Duke. About 150 yrs ago, as they were digging at the bottom of S^t Michael's Mountain for Tin, they met wth Spear Heads, Axes & Swords of Brass, all wrap'd up in Cannon. As S^t Michael's is alternately either Island, or join'd to S^t Michael's Main Land by a large Beach of Sand and Pebbles. The present worthy Possessor of it, hath built at the foot of the Mount, a Noble & Capacious Pier, or Mole, where a great Number of Ships may in all Safety, be laid up, Cleand and Rigit.

This Prospect is humbly Inscrib'd by

THIS building is fram'd with great propriety & regard to y^e shape of y^e Hill on w^{ch} it stands; The tower of y^e Church is almost in y^e middle of y^e whole building & rises from the center of y^e Mountain's Base, terminating the whole, as a Cone does a Pyramid; the Church Cells and parapel Walls, spread themselves round the Tower, so as to cover y^e area or top of y^e Hill, and y^e Hill enlarges it self gradually from the building downwards, till it comes near the Sea, where it swells into a base of a mile in circumference; so that y^e most skillfull Architect could hardly contrive a building that would better become y^e shape of this Mountain. The situation is very agreeable, the rocky precipices that form the sides of the Mountain are wonderfully grand, and make a most beautifull contrast to that pleasant prospect of fruitful fields & Villages, that surround & enclose Mounts Bay, so call'd from this S^T Michael's Mount, as standing near its center, and making y^e most remarkable figure of any part of y^e circuit.

Launceston alias Dunheved Castle, was a very strong place, and therefore obtain'd, the name of Castle Terrible, the round Hill on which it stands, being environ'd with a triple wall. It was built, by William de Morton, Earl of Cornwall, soon after the Conquest; & was one of the Principal Castles of that Dutchy, it had a very large hall, in which the Assizes were held, for many Years, but it is now so much decay'd, that no use is made of any part thereof except that which serves for the County Goal.

III. for rescuing some Ships of Rye they had the Arms, & claim'd the privileges of the Cinque Ports in R. Ed. I. and R. Ed. II. times they perform'd many gallant Actions. R. Ed. THIS Place in all probability was an House of the Knights Templers, but the whole order was dissolv'd about the 5.th Ed. II. that but few particulars are to be found in History of them. Their great Possessions were given principally to the Knights Hospitallers, tho' some at that time came into Gentlemens Hands as all did at length in the common Dissolution.

by allowing the Romans to have had a Garrison here. So commodious is the Harbour of Julius Caesar in his famous

As no Notice is taken of it in the Monasticon its probable it fell with other of the lesser Religious Houses before the general Dissolution.

THIS Castle is of so great Antiquity that no certain Act is to be met with to whome it owes its Foundation, but this we are assured of from undoubted History that it flourish'd under of Saxon Empire. It was given by the Conqueror to Roger de Montgomery his Kinsman, and by one of his Descendants forfeited by Rebellion against King Hen. 1. That Princes Consort Adeliza had it in Dover, & her 2^d Husband W^m de Albin held this Castle out against King Stephen in favour of Maud & Empress, who in Recompence of his Services created him Earl of Arundel, which Title is in of Limitation different from others, for that Honour is so annex'd that whosoever is seized of this Castle & Seignory is without Creation Earl of Arundel. From of Albin it descended in Marriage to of Fitz Alans, and from them in 1579 with an Heir female to Thomas Howard Duke of Norfolk, whose Descendant the most Noble Edward Duke of Norfolk now enjoys it.

THIS Castle with its Town adjoining now known by its Name of Pevensey or Pemsey was call'd by the Saxons Peofensea, & by its Normans Pevensel. Archbishop Usher takes this to be its old Caer-Pensavel-Coit of its Britains, and Mr Somner thinks it to be much more probably its Anderida of its Romans than Newenden in Kent. The Noble Ruins here represented in which are to be seen regular Strata of Roman or British Bricks are strong Arguments of its Antiquity. History too informs us of its Grandeur in later Times viz. in its Conquerors that this Castle was very large & beautiful. The Harbour which a few years since afforded Passage to small Vessels, but is now quite chaot up, was certainly of Old large & commodious, for this was one of its Sea Ports that Godwin Earl of Kent ravaged in the Consequors Time, and carried off many Ships. Here also Juane Son of Odo Earl of Kent A.D. 1049 to seduce his Nephew Beornc who he afterwards basely murder'd came with his Fleet. S. & N. Buck del. & Sculp. Published according to Act of Parliament March 25 1757

THIS Castle known in our ancient Maps by the Name of Gamber-Castle it's probable was originally built for the Defence of the old Town of Winchelsea which was swallow'd up by the Sea in a terrible Tempest A.D. 1250. This Inundation gave Rise to the present Winchelsea which has been large & beautiful, but now by the Retirement of the Sea become very ruinous. Dr. Holland in his Translation of Mr. Camdens Britannia says this Castle was fortified by R. Hen. VIII. It's likely enough that Prince erected it present on the Foundations of the ancient Castle for tho' the outer Part has the same Appearance as his other Buildings yet the Inside seems to be of much greater Antiquity. — Sam: & Nath: Buck del. & Sculp. THIS Castle standing on a fine Eminence above the Town was built by Licence of H^c. Stephen by his Brother Hen^c. of Blois B^p. of Winchester. In the Disputes between H^c. In 1641 John Denham of Egham Esq^r. High Sheriff of Surry secured it for H^c. Charles I. but was dispossest by S^r. W^m. Waller who garison'd it for the Parliament. RICHMOND anciently call'd Shene or Shine from its Beauty has always been in great Estimation for its Purity of its Air, & was formerly much frequented by our Princes. Here died H. Rich.^d II, whose Death that Prince took so much at Heart that he caused y^e Palace to be laid in Ruins. H. Hen.^d V readorn'd it. In H. THIS famous Citadel is commonly reported to have on'd its Foundation to One of y^e Casars. Tho' History is silent yet tis probable London which was very considerable under y^e Roman Government was not then unprovided with a proper Place of Defence. Tis well known Constantine the great wall'd y^e whole City which was then about 3 Miles round. Where then could be a more fit Part than this where y^e Wall ended on y^e eastward for a Fortrefs against any Invasion by Water.
Tis certain here was a Fort long before y^e Conquest, call'd in y^e British Language Bringwin or Tour-gwin from its whiteness. The Conqueror built y^e stately White-Tower, & Hen. I a Castle towards y^e Thames. Rich^d I enclos'd y^e whole with an embattel'd Stone Wall, & cut y^e deep Ditch round it.

Here too is the Mint for coining Money, with all manner of Utensils, & Conveniences, for the proper Officers thereunto belonging; and this is the chief Prison for State Criminals. THIS Priory was founded by W^m Warren Earl of Surry. A^o 1090. It was subordinate to Senlis in Sussex. Herbert B^p of Norwich constituted the Church & Monastery, and placed therein Cluniac Monks, under the Rule of S^t Benedict. It was seisd as an Alien Priory 24th Edw.¹. but in the 34th Year of his Reign proof being made that it was in no respect Subject to the Power or assessments of any foreign King or Monastery, except only if when the Abbot of Clugny some times came into England he used to visit in this Priory, it was restored to its former Priviledges & Possessions. The present Proprietor is the R.^t Hon.^{ble} the Lord Lovel.

AT what Time, or by whom this Castle was built is not certain, the earliest Account being from H. Henry I. Barth: Glanvill being then Governour of this Castle at n^o. Time some Fishermen catch'd a wild Man in their Nets, near this Place, all the parts of his Body resembled those of a Man; he had Hair on his Head, a long peaked Beard, & about 4 Brest was exceeding hairy & rough. This Castle was 1st Capital Seat of Peter de Valoines, & by failure of Male Issue it came by Marriage to the Uffords; from them to S^r. THIS Castle appears to have been of considerable strength. It was first built by John de Norwich, who obtained a License from R. Edward III. to make a Castle of his House here. He left it to his Grandson John, and he to his Cousin & next Heir Catherine de Brens, or Brice; but she taking on her the Habit of a Nun, soon after Robert de Ufford E. of Suffolk, & Son of Margaret de Norwich, inherited it as next Heir. From the Uffords it came to the Mettinghams, who from hence took their Name. In this Castle was a College or Chantry, founded by R. John de Norwich R. Vice Admiral of England, dedicated to God & y^e Blessed Virgin. Annual Value 202. 7. 5. — Tis now the Property of Tobias Hunt Esq.

THIS Castle was anciently called Cnoberburg, & is supposed to have been one of the Forts which the Romans built on the River Garienis, [Ware] against the Saxon Piracies. Ralph, the son of Roger de Burgh, held this Castle by Sergeantry, and after him Gilbert de Weseham. At last it was surrendered into the hands of King Henry the III. who about the 20th of his Reign, gave it, with all the appurtenances, to the Monastery of Bromholm, in the County of Norfolk.

THIS Castle was formerly one of y^e King's; but it does not appear when or by whom it was founded. It was repair'd, as Mr. Camden tells us, in y^e Reign of R. Hen. 6. out of y^e Ruins of Maburg, a Roman Fort hard by: But y^e late Annotator upon that Author is positive, that it was never repair'd out of y^e Ruins of Maburg, and that neither was That ever a Roman Fort, but a Danish Temple. However that be, this Castle, w^{ch} has long been it self in Ruins, continued in y^e Crown till R. Will. III. who granted it, with y^e Honour of Penrith, to William Bentinck Earl of Portland, Grandfather to His Grace y^e present Duke of that Title.

THIS Castle [so call'd from y^e Sweetness of its Situation] the Seat of y^e Bishops of Carlisle: was built at different Times by y^e successive Bishops of that See, particularly Strickland, Kite, and Bell, whose Names y^e Towers now standing do still retain. K. Edw. 1. in y^e 28.th Year of his reign, in his Expedition ag^t y^e Scots, lodged here, & dated his Writts for summoning a Parliament to be held at Lincoln. It was fortified with strong Walls & a double Dutch, w^{ch} were kept in good Order, till y^e late Civil Wars, when it was burnt down, & 1652. what escap'd y^e Fire & was standing at y^e Restoration, was somewhat repair'd & made habitable by Dⁿ Stern then Bishop of this See: But it's greatest Benefactors were his two next Successors, Dⁿ Rainbow & Dⁿ Smith, who, at no small Expence, added a Chapel & two Towers, & made it, what now it is, with y^e Improvements of y^e present Lord Bishop, a decent and commodious Palace.

Lieutenant Governour of CARLISLE CASTLE.
This Prospect is humbly Inscrib'd by

THIS Castle, if not founded by y^e Romans, is very probably as ancient as A.D. 686. when K.
Egfrid rebuilt this City [after it had long laid demolish'd by y^e Scots and Picts] & encompass'd it, we are told, with a fair Stone Wall. But 'tis as probable that it was again destroy'd, with y^e greatest part of y^e City, by y^e Danes and Norwegians, & laid in Ruins for 200 Years. For K. Will. Rufus is said to have repair'd y^e Castle, as well as y^e Walls and Houses of this City, in his Return from the Scotch Wars. The Annotator upon Camden says, 'tis certain y^e Castle was built by K. W. Rufus, n^o.^t indeed it might properly enough be said to be, considering y^e ruinous State wherein it might be before. Mr. Camden himself infers from y^e Arms that it was built by K. Rich.^d III. But 'tis more probable that He did [if any Thing] only repair it, as might also Q. Eliz. whose Arms are likewise put up in another Part. It is now made use of as a Mansion house for y^e Gov^r of y^e Castle for y^e time being.

THIS Castle with its Lordship is remarkable for being the Gift of King John to John de Vipont, or de Vêrriponte, as a Reward for his good Services; it remained in this Family till the Reign of King Henry III. when Robert de Vipont joining in a Rebellion with Montford Earl of Leicester, was slain in the Battle of Evesham; his Estate being seized, was given to Roger Clifford & Roger de Seybourne, who had Married his Daughters Isabel and Idonea, who afterwards deserved so well of that King, & he totally remitted the Forfeiture of their Father.
